

Prices of Grounding Distribution Boxes from Chinese Manufacturers

AI Overview

Grounding distribution boxes from Chinese manufacturers typically range from $20 to $500 per unit, depending on specifications, materials, and order volume.

Price Overview The cost of grounding boxes varies widely based on size, material, voltage rating, and customization. Standard enclosures made from steel or aluminum for general industrial use often start around $20-$50 per unit for small quantities, while high-voltage or surge-protected units with advanced features like ZnO surge arresters, IP68 protection, or stainless steel construction can reach $300-$500 per unit. Bulk orders usually benefit from significant per-unit discounts, especially when ordering directly from factories or verified suppliers.

Factors Affecting Price

- Material: Stainless steel and corrosion-resistant alloys cost more than standard steel or plastic enclosures.
- Protection Rating: IP-rated or NEMA-rated boxes for outdoor or hazardous environments increase cost due to enhanced sealing and durability.
- Customization: OEM branding, modular busbar fitment, cable entry modifications, and logo embossing can raise the price.
- Voltage and Application: Boxes designed for high-voltage substations or industrial surge protection are more expensive than standard low-voltage distribution boxes.
- Order Volume: Larger orders reduce per-unit cost, with wholesale pricing often available for distributors.
